

Can People See What You Like on TikTok? How to Hide Liked Videos

If you regularly like videos on TikTok, you may have wondered: Can people see what you like on TikTok? The answer depends on your liked-video privacy setting.

TikTok lets you control who can view the videos you have liked from your profile. In fact, liked videos are hidden from your profile by default when you create an account. You can still change the setting later if you want to share them.

If you want to keep your TikTok activity more private, you can make your liked videos visible only to you. Here's exactly how it works, what other people can still see, and what you should know about TikTok likes and views.

Can People See Your Liked Videos on TikTok?

Yes, but only when your Liked videos privacy setting allows it. When you like a TikTok post, it is added to your Liked videos section. You can find this by going to Profile → Liked videos in the TikTok app.

TikTok gives you control over who can see this section. Depending on whether your account is public or private, the available choices can include:

- Everyone — people can view your liked videos on a public account.
- Followers — available for private accounts.
- Only you — your liked videos remain private.

So, if your goal is to hide your likes on TikTok, choosing Only you is the key setting.

How to Hide Likes on TikTok

If you're looking for how to hide likes on TikTok, you can change the setting directly in the app.

Step 1: Open your TikTok profile

Launch TikTok and tap Profile at the bottom of the screen.

Step 2: Open Settings and privacy

Tap the ≡ Menu button in the top-right corner, then select Settings and privacy.

Step 3: Go to Privacy

Tap Privacy to open your account privacy controls.

Step 4: Open Liked videos

Find Liked videos and tap it.

Step 5: Select Only you

Choose Only you to hide your liked videos from other people. TikTok's current Help Center confirms this path: Profile → Menu → Settings and privacy → Privacy →

Liked videos, followed by the visibility option you want. That's it. Your liked-video list will no longer be available to other people through your profile.

What Happens When You Make Your Likes Private?

Making your liked videos private does not delete your likes. It simply changes who can see the collection of videos you've liked on your profile. This distinction matters because people often search for how to hide my likes on TikTok when they actually mean one of several different things.

There are three separate concepts:

- Your Liked videos: the videos you've personally liked.
- Like counts: the number of likes received by a video.
- Views: the number of times a video has been viewed.

Changing your Liked videos setting controls the first one. It does not turn every like or view on TikTok into a private metric.

Can Someone Still Know You Liked Their Video?

Making your Liked videos private should not be confused with removing the interaction itself. If you tap the heart on somebody else's video, you have liked that post. TikTok's liking feature is separate from the privacy setting that controls your Liked videos section. You can remove a like by tapping the Like button again. In other words, “Only you” hides your liked-video list from your profile; it isn't an invisible-like mode that erases the interaction everywhere. If you want to remove a particular like, open the video and tap the heart again.

Can You Hide the Number of Likes on TikTok?

This is where many TikTok guides become confusing. The Liked videos privacy setting is not the same thing as hiding the number of likes received by a video. If you're asking how to hide likes count on TikTok or how to hide how many likes on TikTok, don't assume that setting your Liked videos to “Only you” will hide the like count on your own posts.

TikTok's current privacy documentation focuses on controlling who can view a post, rather than providing a general setting that makes all engagement counts invisible. For your own videos, you can instead control the audience by changing the post's privacy setting.

How to Hide a TikTok Video Without Deleting It

If your real goal is to hide one of your own videos, you don't need to delete it. TikTok lets you change the audience for an existing post.

Go to:

Profile → Open the video → More options (...) → Privacy settings → Choose who can view the post

Depending on your account type, TikTok provides options such as Everyone, Friends, Followers, or Only you. Choosing Only you makes the post private without deleting it. One useful detail: changing a video's privacy does not reset its existing view count. TikTok specifically notes that the view count reflects all views accumulated by the post to date.

What About TikTok Likes and Views?

Likes and views are both engagement signals, but they are not the same thing. A view happens when someone watches your content, while a like is an intentional interaction with the heart button.

If you're a creator trying to boost TikTok views, hiding your personal Liked videos does not itself increase or decrease your video's reach. The privacy setting is designed to control the visibility of your liked-video list.

It's also worth remembering that hiding your own activity is different from hiding the performance of your content. Your privacy choices and your content's audience settings should be treated separately.

Can People See Your Saved Videos on TikTok?

Another common question is: Can people see your saved videos on TikTok? Don't confuse saved or favorited content with your Liked videos.

Liking a video and saving a video are separate actions. Your Liked videos section is specifically the collection controlled by TikTok's Liked videos privacy setting. If you're trying to keep your activity private, check your other profile and account privacy settings as well rather than assuming that hiding likes changes every type of activity. TikTok provides separate privacy controls across features such as posts, downloads, activity status, profile views, comments, Duet, and Stitch.

How to Make Your Likes Private on TikTok Again

You can change the setting whenever you want. If your liked videos are currently visible and you want to make your likes private on TikTok, follow the same steps:

Profile →  → Settings and privacy → Privacy → Liked videos → Only you

If you later decide to make your likes public, return to the same setting and choose the available public visibility option. TikTok currently documents Everyone for public accounts, Followers for private accounts, and Only you as the private option.

Does Hiding Likes Affect Your TikTok Account?

No special account reset is required when you hide your liked videos. You're changing the visibility of your liked-video list, not deleting your account activity or removing the videos you've liked. You can continue liking videos normally. If you want to remove a specific like, simply tap the heart again on that video.

Your privacy setting also shouldn't be confused with strategies for getting more engagement. If your goal is to boost TikTok views, that is a content and audience-growth question rather than something controlled by the Liked videos privacy setting.

What If the “Liked Videos” Option Is Missing?

TikTok's interface can change over time, and some features or settings may vary by account type, age, or region.

Start by checking:

1. TikTok is updated to the latest version.
2. You're using the mobile TikTok app.
3. You're looking under Profile → Menu → Settings and privacy → Privacy.
4. Your account's privacy restrictions aren't limiting the available options.

TikTok maintains separate privacy and safety controls for different account types and features, so not every account necessarily has identical settings. If the setting still isn't available, check TikTok's Help Center or use Report a problem from the app.

What About Reposts?

Reposts are another activity that shouldn't be confused with likes. TikTok says a repost shares a video to friends and community members through the For You feed, and reposted videos are labeled with the profile photo and nickname of the person who reposted them. You can remove a repost by opening the video and selecting Remove repost.

If you're trying to keep your TikTok activity private, review your reposts separately instead of assuming that hiding your Liked videos also hides repost activity.

Final Takeaway

If you want to hide your likes on TikTok, the solution is simple: open Settings and privacy → Privacy → Liked videos and select Only you.

The important thing is knowing what this setting actually controls. It hides the list of videos you've liked from your TikTok profile; it does not automatically hide every like count, view, post, repost, or other activity on your account. For broader privacy, review your post visibility and other TikTok privacy settings individually. And if you're focused on growing an account, remember that TikTok likes and views are engagement metrics, while your Liked videos privacy is simply a visibility control.
